

Ms. Haberlin:

Sandra, hi I hope you are doing well. I was very happy to here from you this morning, I have a great deal of concern about the e-payment requirement. If we the government alienate too many small contractors then when we do have another war the U.S. will be in for a hard time. I know of a program that the government owns the rights to at this time. It's called DESTRAP, it's by a local company here in Utah called Scienteck. They developed it for the QDR (Quality Deficient Reports) Form 202. The program uses a central server and a web sight to have tech's fill in the form and then the e-mail go out with clocks on them so action will be take on several operations. That's it in a nut shell, we own the program right now the contractor can mod the program to use the DD form 250. If there is anything else you need to know let me know. Thanks Rich
